

New Low-Cost Internet Plans Available for Rio Linda Families

by John Todd — 22 hours ago in News 0

Access to the internet is a crucial tool in today's world. Getting online can help you find job opportunities, connect your children to school resources, and even access telehealth services, which can save you both time and transportation costs. Cost shouldn't be a barrier to being connected.

If you're a Rio Linda resident who receives CalFresh or CalWORKs benefits, you may be eligible for new low-cost internet plans from various Internet Service Providers. The California Department of Social Services is encouraging all eligible families and individuals to look into these options, especially if you were previously enrolled in the Affordable Connectivity Program (ACP) or are just now looking for more affordable internet service.

For help with eligibility and enrollment, you can reach out to the Get Connected Call Center. It's powered by the California Emerging Technology Fund and is ready to assist you in learning more about these low-cost plans and how to sign up.
